

Abstract

EP & IT Solutions Co., Ltd. was established for information technology business. This Company started with computer and Network System and provide solutions in the area of Network, Server, and Storage. The Manager had foreseen the data becomes lost and can't be recovered when devices in network system has error while using. This problem was solved by using High Availability (HA) technique in virtual computer technology. This technology makes the system available at all times to solve problems of data loss. Networking is also available all the time and can be more effective.

Keywords : High Availability, Network System, Virtual Computer